Day 3 SUNDAY

9.30AM

On your final day in Bahrain, wake up to a lavish breakfast at Orangery, a charming colonial café known for its ambience and food. After breakfast, head to Bahrain's Farmers' Market to pick up some homemade jams and honey before you fly back. Alternatively, you could head to Camel Farm for selfies with the humpback creatures.

The newly-opened One&Only Seef offers panoramic views and an ultra-luxurious health and wellness spa by Givenchy.

11.30AM

Save all your shopping for this day. The Riyadat Mall in Alali is home to numerous young designers and brands such as Green Bar, a haven for organic skincare products. Stop by Blissful Temptations for a quick snack or to pack some local delicacies to take home. Or head to Manama, where Mattar Jewelers house traditional Bahraini pearls and jewels, which make for beautiful keepsakes.

2PM

Lumee and Al Bindaira Cafe are great options for your last lunch in Bahrain. Pick from their array of local dishes and sanitised street food—we recommend the spicy lamb chops and a shisha to wrap things up.

Indian food seekers should savour a meal at Rasoi

4PM

If you are a mall rat, you may want to check out Moda Mall, The Avenues or the Amwaj Marina. If you're feeling lazy, log on to the website of Bahraini designer Lulwa Al Amin. The best part? They deliver the same day and can even send it to your home country.

8PM

If you're craving Indian cuisine, head to Rasoi by Vineet, run by Michelin chef Vineet Bhatia. They also do an excellent tiffin lunch on weekdays. For fans of Frida Kahlo or Mexican food, the vibrant Cantina Kahlo is a must visit. ■
